

EDCO's ArrowLine Roofing Picked as Top 10 Product of 2009

Everybody likes new stuff. That's why the New Products featured in Metal Roofing Magazine are annually among the most popular among readers — and garnering the most reader responses.

Every year, as a service to you, the readers, and to honor those innovative manufacturers and suppliers in the industry, we calculate a list of the Top 10 Products. We do this by researching to discover which products had the most reader responses.

So, without further ado, here are the Top 10 Products of 2009 as determined by the readers of Metal Roofing Magazine. If you missed them during 2009, here's your chance to obtain information on the products your competitors were researching last year. There may be something here to make 2010 a great year for you and your business.

Edco Products

Edco Products introduced two new panels to its ArrowLine roofing product line. The two new panels are based on Edco's original ArrowLine Shake and Slate panels. Edco takes the shake or slate panel and then enhances the panel with lighter and darker tones that complement the base color. This process creates a natural blended look that has more curb appeal than solid color panels. ArrowLine Enhanced Shake is available in four blended colors while the ArrowLine Enhanced Slate comes in three blended colors.

